KASHMIR—VOTES INSTEAD OF GUNS WITH HELP OF U.N.—New Year's Eve, 1948, was an important date in Vaid of Kashmir. At that moment, 14 months of hostilities were ended when a cease-fire order was issued simultaneously by the outer states of India and Pakistan. Now the road is open to a peaceful solution by means of a plebiscite to be held under the auspices of the United Nations. The agreement was the climax to persistent U.N. efforts to bring about peace between the two states and to bring 400,000,000 people out of a war. Co-operation of all parties involved in the conflict facilitates operations of the U.N. commission in the trouble area. Here Kashmir's deputy prime minister, Bakshi Chakram Mohammed Sahib, (centre), assists the U.N. field team in planning a tour of inspection of the mountainous territory of Kashmir.—Official United Nations Photo from S.N.S.

BE KIND TO DUMB ANIMALS—Penny the Bower looks rather sorrowful as his seven-year-old mistress, Wendy Moffett, spoons him some food in the Moffett home at Mountbelle, N.J., where both are recuperating from a duking in a lake near their neighborhood. The currow probably stole from the fish Penny has to wear. Walking with Wendy and the latter's friend, Patricia Durand, the dog fell into the lake. The girl chased it and in trying to save it, fell in, too. Wendy got out, rescued the dog and then called for help. Patricia, rescued, is now in hospital recovering from exposure.—S.N.S. photo.

Owner of the car, Joseph Kulmberg, Detroit, was badly hurt. The girl was pinned to wreckage for half an hour before rescuers could remove her. She died in hospital at Chatham, Ont.

billions and the world grows again with hope and harvest.

What has this to do with public opinion? Just this, the organs of public opinion can, through new life in the hearts of men, create a moral seed from which new life will spring up for entire nations.

Today, we see in many parts of the world the organs that create public opinion—Press, Radio, Motion Pictures, Theatre, Art—being used as weapons to inflame men's minds with alien ideas which must indirectly lead to the death of liberty.

Many people say they pay no attention to the newspapers. A minute later, often unconsciously they offer as their own opinion something that they read at the breakfast table. So it is because of extreme importance how writers, artists and ordinary people use the liberty we have inherited.

If it is not used to export the right ideas to the millions, the Press and Radio of the free nations may be taken over by those who want to export the wrong ideas. That bid is already being made. Revolution sweeps across the world.

But Renaissance, likewise can come as quickly as these weapons—day and night, proclaim with passion and colour, with fire and light, the ideology of inspired democracy to the millions. Then we shall see Press and Film, Music, Art, Theatre, finding their true destiny. And in the year of grace, 1949 we may see the beginning of an age which will be the wonder of future generations—the new birth of freedom that can remake nations and change the course of history, because men began to fight for God to have right in the world He made and loves.

THE HOUSE OF WEAH

What Makes Prices? A few mornings ago I listened to a Farm Forum broadcast which I thought the most excellent. After the broadcast, however, the announcer gave the results of the opinion of city groups on a broadcast which had been held some weeks before. Some of the groups reported they favoured the open market, some reported they did not, because, they said, they did not wish the prices of their commodities to be fixed by speculators and speculators.

The truth is there are no gamblers on the open market, for gambling is not permitted by the regulations and gambling is also a crime against the law of Canada. Speculators, as has been shown by several Radio Commercials, have practically no influence on prices. Prices are determined by the world-wide factors of the supply and demand of the open market.

Price is not influenced by the world-wide factors of the supply and demand of the open market, but by all other commodities that can be substituted. There is no instance of any price that has been out of line with this principle either on the open market or even when the commodity has been marketed by a Government. It seems to me, then, that it would be in the interests of all of us if the Farm Forum were to put on a discussion on "What Makes the Prices of Agricultural Products?"

HOSPITAL POLL TAX

Enlightened, March 4, (C.P.)—Municipal Affairs Minister Gortals today told legislators that anyone in Alberta who does not pay property taxes, may be asked to pay a hospital poll tax. This will be done if the district in which he lives becomes part of a municipal district.

Provision for the poll tax are contained in amendments to the Municipal Hospitals Act and the Improvement Districts Act. Mr. Gortals said that payment of the poll tax entitles the tax payer to hospital treatment on the same basis as property owners who also pay a special tax for hospital purposes.

Word came at 8:1 a day or less under municipal hospital arrangements is given. Each district, hamlet, village or town in the province also must pay a share towards hospital expenses.

The two little hospitals the municipal hospital and improvement districts still have to be given.

Notwithstanding, and he signed by the Lieutenant-Governor before becoming law.

A promising wheat developed in the United States is being tried out in western Canada. It is said to be a better yield than Thatcher and to possess disease resistant qualities.
